

For the 467 Young Adults that participated, PURSUIT referred to the fun Car Rally event on 31 October last year.

Participants worked in groups of three cars each to solve clues that would lead them to various locations in Singapore. Once there, at some of these stations, participants are required to perform tasks such as devouring (hot!) Buffalo Wings and flying a kite in the dark.

The Car Rally was not all about speed. Winning groups were decided based on a point system which took into account the locations visited, the tasks performed and the time teams took to return to the end point. Given the short time permitted to visit these locations, the young adults had to work together to strategise, collaborate and pursue the locations among different cars and across them.

The event ended with a sharing by Pastor Gerald, who exhorted the YAs to be conscious of whom and what they should pursue in their lives. This was followed by a prize presentation to the 10 winning groups. Praise God for a great event!

"While I pursued God in planning and organising, my friends and oikos came and experienced God."

When it comes to cars, it's not always about speed. So say the 467 Young Adults (YAs) who came together for a common pursuit at Trinity's very first Car Rally. Tan Shun Loong reports.

"PURSUIT was a great platform for the Young Adults to learn to work as a team whilst having fun in the process. I believe that many lives were touched that day. Being in the publicity team allowed me to stretch the talent that God has given me and use it for His glory."
